TYBEE ISLAND, GA - The City of Tybee Island has parted ways with Fire Chief Jeremy Kendrick, who was terminated from employment this week. The city has appointed Greg Socks and Jason Waterfield, two local, retired fire chiefs with decades of experience, to lead the department while the city conducts a search for a new fire chief.

“The city and its command staff within the fire department are confident that Chiefs Socks and Waterfield will provide excellent guidance during this transition,” said Interim City Manager Michelle Owens.
